Germans Fight Raging Flood As Allies Explode Italian Dam

Men Under 26 Will Last Until Fall--Hershey

By The Associated Press

Chances that men over 26 and in essential war work will be drafted faded still further yesterday when Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey predicted the pool of draft eligibles under 26 probably will last "until early fall."

Selective Service has been making its plans in anticipation that the under-26 group would be pretty well exhausted by sometime in July.

Hershey said in an interview at Baltimore, however, that draft calls during the last several months had not been as high as anticipated and that there had been fewer rejections among men under 26.

CURRENT INDUCTION BAN

Currently, Selective Service has a ban against induction of men 26 and over who are "making a contribution to essential agricultural, war production or war-supporting activities."

Since this order went into effect April 8 some boards have stopped inducting any men over 26, an Associated Press survey showed.

State directors in Florida, Indiana and Delaware said none were being inducted, and Rhode Island draft officials said they did not expect to call any over 26 before July. New York city draft officials said no men over 26 had been inducted there since the April 8 order except for a few volunteers, and the Nevada state board said it anticipated none of the older men would be called in May.

The order does not forbid induction of men over 26 who are engaged in nonessential activities, and many local boards still are taking them. The Nebraska state board, for instance, reported 10 per cent of calls since April 28 had been of men 26 or over from nonessential work.

INDUCTION OF DELINQUENTS

Virtually all the state directors reached in the survey said local boards under their jurisdiction were following the national order to the letter. In many cases, however, they interpreted it as permitting induction of delinquents and, as in New York city, were accepting volunteers over 26 without regard to employment.

While National Selective Service officials said they considered the order a flat, nationwide ban on induction of older men in war-supporting or essential activities, some boards apparently did not so interpret it.

In North Dakota, induction of men over 26 was stopped from April 8 to May 1 but state headquarters instructed local boards to resume "normal inductions of men from 18 to 38" on May 1.

Colonel Claude C. Earp, Missouri draft director, said men 26 and over in farm and other essential occupations were "at the bottom of our draft lists and only a very few" were being called.

Some boards in South Dakota were reported drafting men over 26 in essential industry when the man himself was not considered essential.

Six Waves of Water Rush on Nazis Near 8th Army Stalemate

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—Hundreds of U. S. Liberators and Allied planes smashed the French Calais anti-invasion defenses and strings of freight cars on rail feeder lines behind it today, and Mediterranean bombers in a spectacular stroke cracked the great Pescara dam amid German lines in Italy and attacked two Romanian rail centers.

Mustang and Kittyhawk fighter-bombers with American pilots in the vanguard made the attack on the Pescara dam near Torre di Passeri, 19 miles up the Pescara river from the port of the same name on the Adriatic side of the Italian peninsula opposite Rome.

The dive-bomber coup released a great wall of flood water which threatened to engulf German strongholds near the Adriatic coast and sweep away bridges vital to Axis military traffic in that long-stalemated sector.

6 WAVES RUSH FORTH

The dam's iron sluice gates were ripped apart by underwater explosions from bombs planted on the upper side of the structure in a 20-minute attack.

As the last Allied flyer left the scene a high wall of water followed by five even higher waves already was a mile downstream, rushing swiftly toward Pescara and other German-occupied Italian cities and Axis defenses erected opposite the British Eighth army lines in the Ortona sector, 10 miles below the port of Pescara.

A bomb from the plane of Sergeant Alexander Duguid, of Scotland, apparently was the first to breach the dam, and Ken Richards, an Australian Kittyhawk pilot, saw his explosives make another break in the iron walls.

American Mustang pilots made the first attack and then climbed to watch succeeding dive-bombings.

DISASTER IN 1934

The Pescara dam, part of a hydroelectric service in the area, holds a tremendous volume of water. In 1934 the Italians attempted to release water through the sluices, with disastrous results. Water from the dam inundated the port town of Pescara at an average depth of three feet. It took a week for the water to subside.

At the same time American heavy bombers striking into Romania hit rail yards at the oil center of Ploesti and at Turnu-Severin near the Danube "Iron Gate" on the 21st straight day of the two-way preinvasion sky offensive which is softening up the Atlantic wall and giving direct support to the Red army in the east.

Italy-based American bomber fleets also struck Podgorica, Yugoslavia, where a big German garrison is located.

NO PLANES LOST

Not a single British-based plane was lost in four sharp cross-channel punches packed into the four hours before 9:30 a. m., after which a gale halted the systematic destruction of Germany's bristling coastal defenses and supporting traffic arteries. Four German fighters were destroyed by Canadian Spitfire pilots.

The Allies have attacked over 100 Axis rail junctions in a little more than two months, ripping out great sections of "second front" trackage, wrecking rolling stock and destroying repair shops so vital to Germany's over-worked transport system which is about to face its greatest test.

The multiple blows by the Allied Mediterranean force followed an attack Thursday night on Hungary's capital at Budapest and an assault the night before on Bucharest, Romanian capital. German broadcasts said the raids on Romania today touched off sharp combats between defending German fighters and American bombers.

Naples dispatches said the Rakos rail yards at Budapest, one of the Axis transport bottlenecks for supplies sent to the Russian front, still were smouldering today after last night's assault by RAF Halifaxes and Wellingtons based in Italy.

FRENCH HUB RAIDED

American Thunderbolt fighters followed through with twin assaults on rail yards at Valenciennes and Somain in northern France, and British Mitchell and Boston bombers escorted by Spitfires pounded Cambrai.

Returning Thunderbolt pilots said the yards at Somain were packed with freight cars. Some of these were seen "going end over end" after the American bombs landed among them. A roundhouse and bottleneck section of track were reported hit at Valenciennes.

Damage being done to these junctions vital to the Germans for a quick disposition of troops to combat an Allied invasion was indicated in a United States strategic air force report on Monday's assaults by several hundred heavy bombers.

AERIAL BOX SCORE

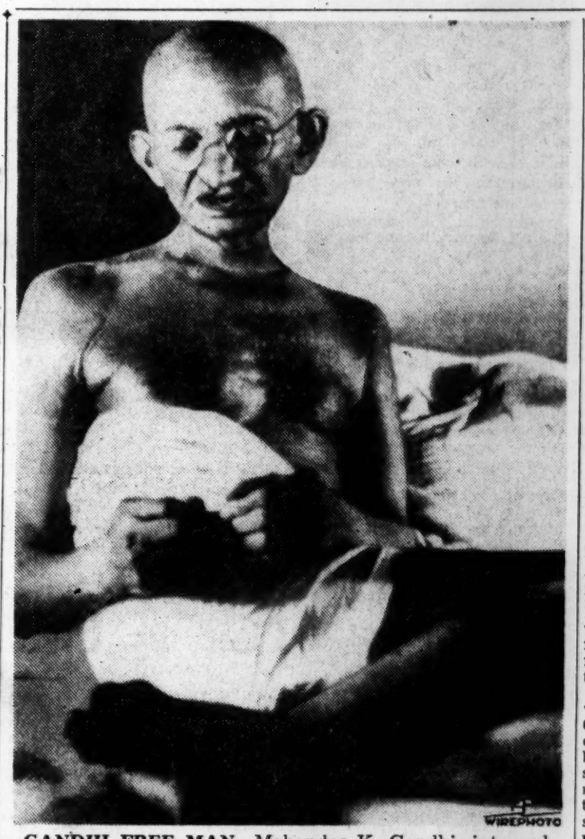

The report showed:

Metz—All tracks in the sidings cut or blocked; severe damage to all four roundhouses and rolling stock; three hits on a big warehouse.

Sarreguemines—A triangular junction in the center of the yard, which is a focus for traffic between northeastern and eastern France and the Saar basin of the German Rhineland, was extensively damaged.

Brussels—At the Schaerbeek yards, Belgium's largest and the intersection of the main France-Germany-Belgium-Holland lines with a capacity of 3,000 freight cars daily, the main lines were cut by at least 16 hits; 21 hits on heavily loaded sorting sidings caused explosions and fires; a coach shop was hit and at least 17 bombs fell on sidings.

Similar damage was reported at Troyes and Reims in France.

GANDHI FREE MAN—Mohandas K. Gandhi, interned Indian leader, was released from his palace-prison this morning. Ill health is only reason, the British say.

British Release Gandhi Due to Failing Health

By JUDSON O'QUINN.

LONDON, Saturday, May 6.—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, frail and ascetic Indian nationalist leader imprisoned 21 months ago, was released from detention at Poona, India, this morning.

A dispatch from Poona said Colonel M. G. Bhandari, inspector general of prisons, took Gandhi to "Parnakuti," palatial residence of Lady Vitall das Thackersey, old friend of Gandhi and widow of a Bombay merchant. Friends welcomed him there.

The British government had announced it decided on Gandhi's release because of his failing health.

BRITISH ANNOUNCEMENT

The death in detention of Gandhi, leader of millions in a long struggle for freedom from British domination, would have inspired agitators in all parts of India. The British action today was believed taken to avert conflict at a time when the Allies are fighting the Japanese bitterly on the India-Burma front.

The announcement said: "In view of medical reports of Mr. Gandhi's health, the government of India has decided to release him unconditionally. This decision has been taken solely on medical grounds. The release takes place at 8 a. m. (Indian war standard time) today."

FLAIR FOR THEATRICAL

The 74-year-old Hindu, whose flair for the theatrical carried him through nine fasts since 1918, was imprisoned for the sixth time in August, 1942, after political activity which the British regarded as hampering India's resistance to Japan. He was confined in the Aga Khan's ornate palace at Poona, near Bombay.

Early this April it was announced Gandhi was suffering from malaria and was weak, and in the following weeks he grew worse. Five days ago he was said to be improving, and it was announced no further bulletins would be issued unless necessary, but two days later the Bombay government said his improvement was not fully maintained and that a further examination was being made by specialists.

The decision to release Gandhi was made by the Indian government and the viceroy, Lord Wavell, and it undoubtedly had the approval of the British cabinet.

DESTINATION UNKNOWN

Actually, Gandhi's release from the Aga Khan's palace, where his wife died last February, probably will mean little more than transfer to a better climate under doctors' care. Where he would go was not immediately known.

It was believed also that he would have little contact if any with his political followers, because of the state of his health.

The secretary of the India League, V. K. Krishnamenon, said, however, that he hoped Gandhi would have full freedom "to consult his colleagues, because without such facilities release from prison cannot be a reality."

"It is essential," Krishnamenon said, "that he should be in no way restricted with regard to making efforts to bring about a new situation in India."

Stilwell's Men Flank and Trap Jap Garrison

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, May 5.—(AP)—American-trained Chinese troops of Lieutenant General Stilwell have smashed through the hotly contested village of Inkangahtawng in northern Burma and by a flanking maneuver trapped the Japanese garrison, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's communique announced today.

At the same time it was disclosed that strong British and Indian forces had launched a general offensive in the Kohima area of eastern India and were making "satisfactory progress" against Japanese troops who apparently had spent themselves in futile attacks against the iron defenses of the big Allied base.

There was no estimate of the size of the enemy force cut off at Inkangahtawng, which is in the Mogaung valley about 30 miles north of Kamaing.

"In a carefully co-ordinated attack by General Stilwell's forces," the communique related, "Chinese troops swept through the village and advanced a half-mile southward. Other Chinese units after a wide flanking movement established a road block two miles south of the village, trapping the enemy as they retreated."

There was no immediate indication that Stilwell's American-operated medium tank unit assisted in breaking the Japanese defenses which had held for more than a fortnight, but it was announced last week that the Yank-armored formation was operating in that sector.

Stilwell's advance units, shoving forward steadily well south of Inkangahtawng, penetrated Japanese positions in the mountain stronghold of Kauri, the communique said.

Except for the concerted Allied effort to clear the Kohima area with the aid of tanks and planes, the India front was reported comparatively quiet. The anticipated Japanese offensive in the Palel area, 28 miles south of Imphal, appeared not to have developed.

On the Arakan front in lower Burma, the communique said, British troops "followed up their major success of the previous day" when they captured important high ground near the Buthedaung-Maungdaw road.

Better weather enabled Allied air forces to put in a heavy day and night blasting railway yards and bridges and Japanese storage depots over much of Burma. The Mandalay area got it particularly hard. Not an Allied plane was lost.

BOMBS FALLING—These bombs have just left the bomb bays and are following others into the target below. A fuselage and component factory where fighter planes are manufactured were objectives of this raid.

Second Fleet Chieftain Lost by Japan in Year

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—Admiral Mineichi Koga, commander of the combined Japanese fleet, was killed in action on an undisclosed front in March—the second Japanese fleet chief to die in action within a year—and has been succeeded by the colorless Admiral Soemu Toyoda, the Tokyo high command announced today.

An imperial headquarters communique recorded by U. S. government monitors said that Koga had "died at his post in March of this year while directing operations from an airplane at the front."

It bore a striking similarity to the Tokyo communique of May 21, 1943, announcing the death of the former fleet chief, boastful Isoroku Yamamoto, in a warplane the previous April.

Yamamoto, who once boasted that he would dictate the peace terms in the White House, was known as the man who torpedoed the London naval conference in 1934 and planned the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. Tokyo indicated last year that he died a spectacular death "on the very front lines in the south," in the midst of a naval engagement.

PLACE UNDISCLOSED

Exactly where Admiral Koga met his death was not disclosed in today's communique. However, on March 29 powerful American naval forces made a surprise attack on Palau island, within 460 nautical miles of the Philippines, and a large force of Japanese warships was reported to have fled the area at the time.

There were no other major engagements during March at which the Japanese fleet was reported in the vicinity, although throughout the month Japanese bases in the Wewak sector of New Guinea were subjected to relentless aerial assault. Another possibility was that Koga may have been in the vicinity of Truk.

Koga, who was 59, was generally regarded as a sound but not brilliant naval officer noted for his tenacity. He was overshadowed by the exploits of his predecessor, Yamamoto.

TOYODA IN COMMAND

Admiral Toyoda, 58, who the Tokyo radio said had already taken over the command of the fleet, was advanced from the navy's second top job, that of commander of the Yokosuka naval base, Japan's largest. The broadcast added that Admiral Zengo Yoshida, who previously commanded the Japanes fleet in Chinese waters, has been named the new commander of the naval station.

The career of Toyoda, like Koga, has not been outstandingly colorful. He was born in Tokyo, May 18, 1885, and is a graduate of the Imperial Naval Academy and the Naval Staff College. After serving as a naval instructor for many years he came into admiralty prominence when he was named chief-of-staff of the combined fleet in 1933. On November 15, 1938, he was promoted to the post of commander of the second Japanese fleet.

He was named an admiral and director of the Japanese naval construction department in 1939 and subsequently took the post at Yokosuka naval station, after first being appointed a member of the supreme war council, the Tokyo radio said.

Admiral Yoshida, 59, served as commander-in-chief of the combined fleet in 1938-39, the Tokyo radio reported. He is one of Japan's top-flight navy politicos and was made minister of the navy when General Nobuyuki Abe formed a cabinet in August 1939.

Washington Board To Visit Fort For Physicals

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., May 5.—The entire membership of the Washington county selective service board left today for Ft. McPherson, where it will take the regular Army physical and mental examination. Comprising the board are Tom Cook Wylly, chairman; B. E. Layton, T. O. Glover and Clerk J. E. Daniel. They will take the routine examination tomorrow along with other selectees.

Each member of the board is over the age limit, but they wanted to see just how the hundreds of men they have sent to the armed forces are "run through the mill."

Chairman Wylly, who was a captain in World War I, stated that the board had accepted an invitation from Colonel James N. Keelin, state director, to visit the induction center, to familiarize themselves of the details.

"Frequently we are asked questions about the induction routine by men who have been selected for service and which we can not answer," said Wylly. "On our return we hope to be able to intelligently answer every question that is propounded to us," concluded the chairman.

Sharp Adriatic Clashes Mark Italian Land Fight

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, May 5.—(AP)—Sharp skirmishes on the Adriatic side of the Italian land front marked yesterday's fighting, with a German raiding party penetrating British positions near Ortona but later thrown back.

Headquarters said German thrusts against the Anzio beachhead perimeter were beaten off, and guns dueled on the Cassino sector.

Chinese Admit Threat to Loyang

CHUNGKING, May 5.—(AP)—Japanese forces, gradually narrowing the Chinese-held gap on the important north-south Peiping-Hankow railway, are seeking a "decisive battle" with the Chinese in the Loyang area, a Chinese Army spokesman said today.

Confirming that the Invaders in their two-way drive now controlled all but 60 miles of the Peiping-Hankow line, the spokesman said Japanese were trying to push the Chinese in the Loyang area into the hills to the west to protect their own operations.

Loyang is an important station on the east-west Lunghai railway, which joins the north-south line at Chenghsien, recently captured by the Japanese. A new threat opened for Loyang, the Chinese admitted today, with Japanese capture of Linju.

Strikes Ended, Two Bakeries Open Today

A possible bread shortage has been averted here.

Bakers employed by the Lee Baking company and the Stone Baking company, who went out on strike several days ago, will return to work today as the result of a conference held yesterday between union and bakery officials in the offices of the United States Labor Conciliation Service.

The conference, which lasted all day, ended in the signing of an agreement last night by which bakers will return to work this morning in the two plants, and labor conciliatory officials said they will today begin work on the problems at the New South Bakery, where approximately two-thirds of their bakers walked out Wednesday, although officials of that bakery have consistently denied that a strike was under way.

The strike at the Lee Baking Company, located on Moreland avenue, led to the strike at the Stone bakery when wrappers bearing the Lee Baking Company name, arrived at the Stone bakery.

Strikers at the Lee Baking Company said they were on strike because the foreman had discharged W. J. Morgan, a baker, who was scheduled to enter the Navy within a few days.

Officials of the bakery have denied that Morgan was discharged.

In the meanwhile, L. M. Hatcher, president of the Atlanta local of the Bakers and Confectionery Union, (AFL) has insisted that the strikes were unauthorized.

The agreement entered into yesterday, by which bakers will return to work in the Lee and Stone bakeries this morning, was shrouded in secrecy last night. Officials of the two bakeries merely announced that a settlement had been obtained, and Hatcher could not be reached last night. However, it was understood that Hatcher, as president of the union, and officials of the Lee and Stone bakeries had signed a 12 months' contract.

The strike at the New South Bakery, Hatcher has said, was by employes who insist on recognition of their union.

Servicemen's Babies Draw Additional Help

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Unanimous house passage sent to the senate today legislation to provide additional financial help for a rapidly increasing number of babies born to wives of enlisted servicemen.

The $6,700,000 fund, voted after brief discussion, augments $23,000,000 previously appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, and in approving it, the House Appropriations Committee pointed out that the next year $42,800,000 will be requested.

Clearing Sky Promised 'Water-Logged' Atlanta

Clearing skies will give relief today to Atlantans who have been gettting too much of rainy days late, according to the Atlanta weather bureau forecaster, who said it would be slightly cooler.

The high reading yesterday was 75 degrees while the low was 56 degrees.

Nazi Armistice Terms Ready, London Hears

LONDON, Saturday, May 6.—(AP)—The Daily Herald said today the European advisory commission had "practically completed" a long, detailed document setting out armistice terms to be presented Germany when the time comes. Editorially the paper criticized Allied diplomats for "working so badly and so slowly."

Violent Gunfire Heard Off Southern Portugal

Viereck's Soldier-Son Is Killed in Action

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—The War Department said tonight that George Sylvester Viereck Jr., of New York city, had been killed in action March 24 in Italy.

Young Viereck, whose father is one of 29 persons facing trial here on charges of seditious conspiracy, was a corporal in the infantry.

150 FLIERS INTERNED

STOCKHOLM, May 5.—(AP)—Sweden now has 150 American fliers under internment. About half of them, it was learned today, will move from their present quarters at Falun to a former health resort at Lokabrunn. The remainder will stay at Falun, which has been overcrowded.

Venturas Plaster Paramushiro With Only Meager Resistance

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Navy bombers plastering Paramushiro in the North Pacific Kurile islands set large fires and caused explosions with bomb hits at that base Wednesday night.

The Navy, in announcing the action today, said other planes struck at Nauru island far to the south hitting barracks and runways on that island 500 miles southwest of the American-held Gilbert island group in the mid-Pacific.

Carrying out the 46th raid on the Kuriles, the Navy's Ventura search planes met only meager resistance from antiaircraft fire and all returned to their bases.

It was the 27th time that Paramushiro, strongest Japanese base in the North Pacific at the extreme end of the Kurile chain, had been attacked by American bombers.

Ponape island in the eastern part of the Caroline island group was attacked by other bombers while still another group of planes continued the regular pounding of isolated enemy positions in the eastern Marshall islands.

Schouten, Wadke Blasted by Allies

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Saturday, May 6.—(AP)—Allied planes have intensified their campaign of neutralizing the Schouten islands in Dutch New Guinea area where the Japanese are reported massing naval air strength, headquarters announced today.

Several enemy planes were smashed on the ground and interceptors were driven off in a new raid on Schouten air bases which lie more than 200 miles northwest of invaded Hollandia.

That is in the sector where a spokesman said yesterday the Japanese were sending reinforcements of their well-trained naval fliers to block the westward movement of General MacArthur's forces toward the Philippines.

Wadke island air base, the nearest one to the west of Hollandia, also was raided and neutralizing attacks were continued against Wewak to the southeast of Hollandia.

50,000 German Troops Rushed to Scandinavia

By EDWARD B. BALL.

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—The Germans were reported tonight to have sent 20,000 reinforcements into restive Denmark and 30,000 into Norway in a new series of anti-invasion moves ranging along almost the entire western front.

Berlin radio commentators continued to discuss the expected Allied assault as being imminent.

A high percentage of seasoned veterans was included among the troops rushed to the Danish and Norwegian sectors of Germany's western defenses, said reports received here through Stockholm.

THREATEN DEFENSES

The Belgian news agency said the Germans had flooded the coastal zone both east and west of Flanders, inundating most roads. This flooding, the news agency added, although undertaken to check invaders, has forced the Nazis to take special protective measures with their defense works between the sea and the submerged inland regions.

Especially in the neighborhood of Calais, Dunkirk, Gravelines and Nieuport rising water and displaced sands from duns are threatening the defense construction, it was said.

The Germans announced they were ready for assault from any direction, drawing their latest omen from Iceland with a report that there was "great Allied activity and large shipping concentrations there, reinforcing the impression that the Allies are planning an invasion of Scandinavia."

The Paris radio saw "great gravity" in the west and Berlin and Vichy commentators noted "mounting Allied reinforcements" in Italy and predicted a blow there simultaneously with the offensive from the west. Algiers said the Germans were rushing fortifications on the island of Elba lying between Corsica and the Italian northwest coast.

NAZI EXPERTS "JUMPY"

As the nerve war mounted, the underground reported new Gestapo purges, with Heinrich Himmler's agents ruthlessly driving to root out any potential behind-the-lines aid to the invaders. The Nazi radio in Norway, for instance, told of extensive police raids in the big port of Trondheim.

Berlin's jumpy invasion forecasters broke out with a new burst of alarms.

"The fact that the enemy has been biding his time in Italy for practically two months," said Nazi Captain Ludwig Sertorius, "can probably be explained in this light: The idea undoubtedly is to co-ordinate a new Allied offensive in Italy with a great invasion in the west.

"Simultaneous action on the eastern front may also be contemplated by our enemies."

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—The British announced today that Allied invasion planners have had the benefit of a minute detailed mosaic of 3,000 miles of continental invasion coastline, put together from pictures made by the RAF. Five hundred thousand pictures were used in the mosaic.

Atlanta Bishop Parley Leader

By DAVID NORRIS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 5.—More than 5,000 ministers and laymen attended the opening of the thirty-second session of the general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church at St. Matthews church here today.

Bishop W. A. Fountain, of Atlanta, vice senior bishop, presided during the opening exercises.

Fifteen bishops, 18 general officers, 12 college presidents and more than 2,000 delegates took part in the opening program.

Bishop D. H. Sims, Philadelphia, host bishop to the conference, is in charge of the local program.

The conference held special prayer for the success of the men in the armed forces. It was led by Bishop J. A. Gregg, of Kansas City, who made a special tour of the battlefronts as a goodwill messenger to Negro soldiers.

The conference guest speakers for the first day's session included Governor Edward Martin, of Pennsylvania; Mayor Bernard Samuel, of Philadelphia; President Charles W. Wesley, of Ohio. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was expected to address the meeting here Friday night.

The conference business session convened with Bishop W. A. Fountain presiding during the organization.

Dr. George J. Sims, of Birmingham, is secretary.

House Orders Ward Inquiry

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—By a thumping 300-to-60 vote, the house today authorized an investigation of the government's seizure of the labor-embattled Montgomery Ward plant in Chicago.

A resolution creating a seven-man committee to determine whether President Roosevelt exceeded his authority was jammed through with only the staunchest administration supporters in opposition.

The Republicans voted solidly for the inquiry, which will run concurrently with another by the senate already under way. Democratic lines broke and 118 joined the GOP in favor of the probe.

Backers of the proposal, drafted by Representative Dewey, Republican, Illinois, sharply criticized the President, the War Labor Board and Attorney General Biddle. They contended that the Ward plant is not a war factory and that Biddle's ruling in support of the seizure makes all private property subject to government acquisition.

Administrationists countered that the seizure was sanctioned by the Smith-Connally antistrike law.

As the house voted a group of employes of Montgomery Ward's Springfield, Ill., subsidiary, the Hummer Manufacturing Company, were off their jobs and said they would remain idle "until the company signs a contract or the government takes over the plant." The plant was not involved in the Chicago dispute.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP) The entire Georgia delegation voted in favor of the house investigation of the government's seizure of Montgomery Ward & Company's Chicago plant.

A company spokesman estimated 450 were involved. The workers are members of the International Association of Machinists (AFL). The plant produces farm equipment and war production parts. Joe Winoski, shop committee chairman, said the company had rejected a WLB order for a 4-cent wage increase and recognition of union demands.

Tempers flared in the house debate with Chairman Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, of the rules committee and Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, ranking majority member, involved in one sharp exchange. Sabath finally voted for the resolution, arguing it would show the company "received many favors" from the government, then "defied" the commander-in-chief in wartime. The attendance at the session was unusually large.

Speaker Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, probably will not announce before Monday the four Democrats and three Republicans he will appoint for the investigation.

Among the sharpest critics of the resolution was Representative Cochran, Democrat, Missouri, chairman of the expenditures committee, which will provide the investigation money, probably $5,000. He said he personally wouldn't approve a dime for it "but the committee will."

Russians Sink 5 More Ships

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—Russian air and fleet units have sunk five more German and Romanian escape ships off Sevastopol in support of the Red army's siege of the ruined Crimean city, Moscow announced tonight.

The broadcast Soviet communique said "aircraft of the fleet dealt persistent blows at transports and other enemy vessels by day and by night" and stated that besides the five transports which were sunk, five barges and a patrol launch were destroyed in the combined air and sea action and many other enemy vessels were damaged.

Although the Russian nightly war bulletin made no mention of ground fighting at Sevastopol, a correspondent with the Red army said the Soviets were "burning and squeezing the enemy out of nearly impregnable stone nests."

This dispatch, broadcast by Moscow and recorded by the Soviet monitor said, "As soon as the Germans captured Sevastopol they began to drill deep holes in the cliffs. Imagine a rocky labyrinth spitting fire from every crack. Add to this an intricate system of subterranean chambers and passages capable of holding whole army divisions and you have a picture of the Sevastopol theater of operations. Every night it vibrates and throws up a flame like a dozen volcanoes in eruption."

Increased action on the eastern front, with Soviet forces launching "uninterrupted attacks in many successive waves" on the Siret river in Romania was described in the broadcast German communique.

Columbus Man Posts Bond on Coupon Charge

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 5.—Roy W. Daugherty, of Columbus, charged with illegal possession and sale of gasoline ration coupons, posted $5,000 bond today in a preliminary hearing before Judge N. A. Brown, U. S. commissioner, after entering a plea of not guilty.

The coupons were alleged to be part of a group stolen from the Phenix City, Ala., War Price and Ration Board April 19.

Daugherty was held over for the September term of federal court.

He made no statement in his defense other than request that his bond be lowered to $1,000.

In denying the request, Judge Brown stated that violating of gasoline rationing orders fell "just short of treason."

The Doctors' Aide Corps of Atlanta has received a national citation from the government for merit of service in civilian defense work.

The award was presented to the group yesterday at the Academy of Medicine by George M. Phillips, director of the Office of Civilian Defense for the Atlanta area. He also gave individual citations to each woman who had been actively engaged in doctors' aide work during the year.

"Atlanta was among the five cities to get an award from the government, and there were 3,000 cities engaged in civilian defense work," Phillips said. "We are proud of this recognition."

Mrs. James Brawner Sr., director of the Doctors' Aide group which is a war service committee to the women's auxiliary, reported that, "The blood registry has typed blood for 16,256 persons since November, 1942. Out of this number, 2,500 were Navy boys from Tech and Emory. Our workers have put in 46,895 hours registering blood types." The director added, "together we have devoted 76,000 hours to health education, general defense and Red Cross work. The ladies of our organization have acted as day nurses, assistants to doctors, recreational supervisors in service camps, and have even given blood to the Red Cross. In fact, they have done almost everything in the line of home defense."

Recipients of the citation and outstanding leaders of the civilian defense program in addition to Mrs. Brawner are Mrs. J. Harry Rogers, president of the women's auxiliary to the Fulton County Medical Society, and Mrs. John Funke, director of the blood type registry.

Alleged 'Finger Man' Convicted in Slaying

Georgia 4-F's Face Resifting

An immediate resifting of all men classified as 4-F was in prospect throughout Georgia yesterday, as draft boards received orders from headquarters to grant deferments to all such men engaged in essential work and to send all others to induction centers for re-examination.

It was the belief of Colonel James N. Keelin, director of Selective Service in the state, that many men who formerly have been rejected and placed in the 4-F category would be accepted for service and that others would have their classification changed if they were now engaged in war work.

This review will be made on all registrants between the ages of 18 and 44, but first attention will be given to those under 38 years of age. If defects which formerly caused the registrant to be placed in 4-F do not appear and if he is not engaged in productive employment for the war effort, he will be reclassified and given a new preinduction examination.

It was said that all fathers over 26 who are now being inducted are either men who have volunteered for service or men who are now engaged in employment not essential to the war.

Colonel Keelin added, in his statement, that every man now in 4-F who is accepted for service under the new ruling would mean one father less subject to induction.

He declared also that the same general procedure would be followed in the case of men discharged from the armed forces for mental or physical defects. If the local board determines that such a man is disqualified for further military service, he will be continued in Class 1-C or 4-F, unless engaged in essential industry, in which case he will take his place in Class 2-A, 2-B or 2-C.

Maconites Ask Welfare Probe

Special to THE CONSTITUTION

MACON, Ga., May 5.—Charging that efforts of A. J. Hartley, state director of public welfare, "in seeking to dominate" the Georgia Conference on Social Work are "detrimental to the good interest of the conference and to the general public," the Macon Council of Church Women today asked Governor Arnall to investigate and "free the conference from any political influence or coercion."

A letter approved by the organization and addressed to the Governor, said the Council of Church Women "view with alarm the unfortunate situation which has recently been created in the Georgia Conference on Social Welfare."

"The conference, since its inception," the letter stated, "has greatly increased in membership and importance and its effectiveness in developing and improving the social welfare standards of the state has been increased through its freedom from political influence.

"The use of the high office of the director of the State Department of Public Welfare in seeking to dominate the conference through employes of that department is detrimental to the good interest of the conference and to the general public welfare.

"The Georgia Conference on Social Welfare, to continue to maintain its high standards and influence must be operated entirely on a nonpolitical basis, and as church women we are concerned that these standards be maintained.

"We urge an investigation into the situation which has been created and that necessary steps be taken to free the conference from any political influence or coercion, and which will be to the best interest of the conference and the social welfare of the state."

The letter was signed by Mrs. Charles Mathis, president, and Mrs. E. E. Mack, secretary.

"MAMA, WHO'S THAT MAN?"—Lieutenant Herman Talmadge came home from the South Pacific yesterday to meet, for the first time, young Herman Eugene Talmadge Jr., who was born during his absence. Baby Gene clings to his mother, the former Betty Shingler, of Ashburn, Ga., during the family reunion at the airport.

Herman Talmadge, Pacific Vet, Arrives Home, Meets His Son

A lean, sun-bronzed young naval officer, who has spent 20 months in the South Pacific, flew into Atlanta yesterday with exactly a day for every month he's been away to get acquainted with his recently enlarged family.

"Just 20 days," agreed Lieutenant Herman Talmadge, trying futilely to transfer lipstick marks from his mouth to the back of his hand and beaming shyly at the slender, brown-eyed blonde who stood beside him beneath the umbrella holding a squirming little boy in a blue knitted romper.

CLINGS TO MOTHER

"I'll probably spend all my leave in McRae and Ashburn—sleeping and eating and getting acquainted with him," he said, indicating 17-month-old Herman Eugene Jr., who was born during his absence.

Sleepy from a long wait at the airport for the plane which was delayed by rain, young Gene eyed his father with interest, but continued to cling to his mother, the former Betty Shingler, of Ashburn, Ga., yelling angrily when photographers attempted to get him to pull a welcome-home performance for his father.

Lieutenant Talmadge, who practiced law in Atlanta before he joined the Navy, has divided the last 20 months between duty as personnel officer on the U. S. S. Tryon and at a naval operations base in the South Pacific.

He had little to say about his experience except that he had "traveled a lot" and was tired. He expressed appreciation for The Constitution V-Mail picture of his wife and son which reached him several months ago.

EX-GOVERNOR ON HAND

"I didn't learn that the baby had been born until he was six months old," he said, adding, "Isn't he something?"

Young Gene, who had his first haircut when his mother was notified a week ago that his father was headed home, went out in the arms of his grandfather, former Governor Talmadge, to meet his father as he stepped off a Delta plane from Dallas. Mrs. Talmadge, who lives in Ashburn with her mother, Mrs. C. F. Shingler, paced up and down as she waited for the plane and flew to put on some more lipstick when the ship was finally spotted in the gray sky.

"I'm awfully nervous," she confessed with a smile. "I knew Herman only a year before he went away. I'll have to get acquainted with him myself."

Mrs. Talmadge, who is 20 now, was a sophomore at the University of Georgia when she was married.

Savage Sparks Housing Fight

Hopes for an early end to the legal debate between city attorneys and attorneys for Hillside Homes, Inc., over the emergency war housing subdivision in Capitol View have been dispelled.

City Attorney Jack Savage, who moved into court yesterday to aid his confrere, Bond Almand, took the floor and held it throughout the day in what virtually amounted to a filibuster.

The jury impaneled Thursday was dismissed at noon by Judge Paul S. Etheridge, who is hearing the case.

"Next week," said the judge, "if we seem to be getting to the point where the jury will be needed, I shall impanel another."

UNRELENTING ATTACK

The jurors had spent the morning in a room adjoining the courtroom where Savage was carrying on his unrelenting attack on what he termed the illegality of the efforts by Hillside Homes, Inc., to force council to provide water, sewerage and establish electrical connections for the houses that have been built. The promoters of the development had started work on the basis of approval given them by the city in February and the approval was withdrawn in March.

Savage maintains the subdivision developers have no redress other than a damage suit to collect the money they have put into the houses.

The city attorney, who has been ailing for some time, was forced to continue his arguments yesterday from a chair placed in front of the judge's bench.

ASKS NEW JUDGE

During the morning Judge Etheridge refused to disqualify himself on demand from Savage. The city attorney maintained that the judge had expressed himself as he announced his decision last week, when he ruled against Westmeath Park developers in West End, who had instituted a similar action, but who were ruled out on a technicality. The judge's expression, Savage said, indicated he was sympathetic with the subdivision developers and could not treat the present case fairly.

"I don't understand how you can say that," said Judge Etheridge. "I ruled against the Westmeath people."

The hearing will be continued Monday morning and will last indefiinitely, according to plans Savage outlined.

Soldier Dies Of Stab Wound

Technical Sergeant Eulis A. Taylor, 27 years old, died at Lawson General hospital at 10 a. m. yesterday from stab wounds inflicted earlier by an unknown assailant.

Taylor told Detectives I. A. Thomas and Roy Etheridge that he was stabbed in the stomach by a civilian whose name he did not know. He said the man apparently was about 25 years old and weighed between 165 and 170 pounds. The detectives reported Taylor was evasive in his answers to their questions about his attacker. Just before he died, he tried to make a statement which the officers could not understand.

Taylor was found staggering along the sidewalk near 273 Ivy street, N. E., about 1:30 a. m., by Captain George Maxey, of the Army Chemical Warfare Service, a patient at Fort McPherson hospital. Maxey was driving down Ivy street when he noticed Taylor holding his hands to his stomach. He took the sergeant to Grady hospital, where he was treated for shock and given blood plasma before being transferred to the Army hospital.

Officers Thomas and Etheridge went to the vicinity of 273 Ivy street after the stabbing and found on the sidewalk a uniform which apparently belonged to Taylor.

C. L. Taylor and W. D. Wallace, assigned to the case by the city detective department, found a trail of blood in front of 273 Ivy street, leading to the next block.

Mrs. Paul Donehoo, Fulton county coroner, reported that the investigation has not yet progressed far enough to determine whether there were eyewitnesses to the stabbing. If no eyewitnesses are found, an inquest will be held.

House Votes To Scrap Income Tax Intricacy

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Spurred by the national outcry against the intricacy and confusion of wartime taxation, the house passed unanimously today a bill designed to relieve some 30,000,000 of the 50,000,000 taxpayers of the necessity of computing income tax returns.

The vote was 358 to 0, the first time in the memory of house veterans that a tax bill passed without a dissenting voice.

This action shuttled the tax simplification legislation to the senate where Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the Finance Committee, predicted early approval.

The streamliner would:

1. Scrap the two-year-old "victory" tax and set new normal and surtax rates and exemptions while keeping actual tax burdens near present levels.

2. Change the withholding levy against wages and salaries—effective next January 1—to deduct currently the full tax liability of persons earning up to $5,000—thus removing the necessity for 30,000,000 persons to compute formal returns.

3. Of the 20,000,000 who still would be required to file returns, 10,000,000 (those earning less than $5,000 but with income other than wages and salaries) could use a simple table showing their entire tax. The remaining 10,000,000, with incomes over $5,000, would fill out a simpler return than the present long form.

The revised normal and surtaxes would be applicable for returns filed next March 15 on 1944 income.

Generally the bill would levy a somewhat larger tax against single persons and couples without children, while the load would be lightened for taxpayers with large families.

Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee, said "as far as burdens go, the measure will not hurt anybody much, or help anybody much." He emphasized that "increased withholding is not increased tax burden."

U. S. Secret Rocket Gun Rushed Into Production

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Military plans for rush production of newly-developed, highly-secret weapons were revealed today, and congressional leaders promised speedy action to provide the necessary funds.

A House Naval Committee report said the armed forces plan to spend $35,000,000 for expanded manufacture of the weapons because of "great demand" for them.

No details about the guns or their method of operation were contained in the report.

The committee recommended appropriation of $65,000,000 for naval ordnance and included a statement from the Navy that $15,000,000 would be used along with $20,000,000 already set aside by the Army for the rocket weapons.

Navy Department officials said there was nothing they could say about rocket guns beyond the statement at a press conference recently by Rear Admiral George F. Hussey Jr., naval bureau of ordnance chief, that "we are using rocket guns."

Likewise, an Army spokesman said no further information was available there except the previously announced use of the famed "bazooka" gun, which is rocket-propelled.

The committee report said the Navy reported the expanded program was needed "because of the new technique required for the new propellant."

Blaze Delays Fire College

Firemen at engine house No. 7, hosts to the tenth annual Georgia State Fire College, had a chance to practice what they preach yesterday when they were called to an automobile fire just before their luncheon for nearly 400 guests.

The luncheon, given for 265 chief officers and firemen attending the meeting, members of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, the city council and the county commission, was delayed for a few minutes while a crew from the fire station extinguished a fire in an American Bakery truck at Oak and Lee streets.

Special guests at the final session of the 1944 college included Mrs. R. J. Davidson, president of the Women's Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Ouida Christmus, chairman of the organization's fire prevention-clean up committee, and Mrs. Howard Pattillo and Mrs. E. A. Gillespie, members of the committee.

This year the college inaugurated a new eight-year training program for state firemen. Men who completed the first unit, which covered forcible entry and minor extinguishment practices, will receive certificates, and diplomas will be awarded those who complete the entire eight-year course.

A special meeting for 25 chief officers attending the conference was conducted by W. Fred Heisler, of Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, Okla. Heisler discussed the responsibilities of chiefs in planning, carrying out and supervising training programs for their men, and urged them to develop programs which fit the needs of their departments.

Officers of the fire college are: Chief C. C. Styron, president; Chief W. C. Thompson, vice president; Assistant Fire Marshal Harry Phillips, director; Lieutenant J. F. Seagraves, city fire inspector, acting director, and Miss Martha Guest, secretary.

Fraser Elected to Post With National Chamber

Carlyle Fraser, former president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, has been elected vice president of the national organization by the chamber's board of directors, according to an AP dispatch.

The board also re-elected unanimously as president Eric A. Johnston, of Spokane, Wash.

Fraser succeeds Carl D. Brorein, of Tampa.

The annual meeting of the full chamber was postponed this year because of transportation and other difficulties. Johnston will leave shortly on a trip to Soviet Russia at the invitation of Premier Stalin.

Southern Writers Who 'Slander' Area Are Denounced

ATHENS, Ga., May 5.—(AP)—Southern writers "who slander this country" were denounced today by Miss Marguerite Steedman, Georgia novelist, before the annual Georgia Scholastic Press Association convention.

Without calling names of writers or novels, Miss Steedman declared, "they fall into the error of writing of rare and isolated cases so that the whole south reeks to heaven of everything evil."

"Whatever the cause, whatever the motives," she said, "those southern writers who smear the land that bore them with a slime she has not created or deserved, stand responsible for every repercussion of their word, for every repercussion now and in the years to come."

Pointing out that "these sensational books" showing the south in an unfavorable light sell well in the north, Miss Steedman declared, "such misrepresentation has already had its effect."

Her audience was composed of approximately 450 members of high school newspaper staffs and their faculty advisers.

Methodists Ask Racial Study

KANSAS CITY, May 5.—(AP)—Methodists plunged into the racial discrimination question today.

They asked that a special commission be appointed to study the problem. Most of the church's 330,000 Negroees, while granted full privileges in general conferences, are segregated into one jurisdiction for administrative purposes.

The 762 delegates to the general conference, who hope to complete their work and adjourn by tomorrow night, also asked that Negroes be given equality in housing, in transportation and in educational facilities, and urged the repeal of "discriminatory legislation against the immigration and naturalization of Orientals of friendly nations, and as soon as possible of all nations."

REGARDING ANTI-SEMITISM

Referring to anti-Semitism, the church asked that better understanding be developed through the interchanges of pastors and rabbis. The church here has practiced what it preaches. Rabbi Samuel S. Mayerberg, of Kansas City, has addressed the convention, and some of the religious ornaments on the huge platform were borrowed from a Jewish temple.

One mixup on the church's attitude toward war was discovered today. The conference had voted to supplant that section of the discipline which said the church would not indorse, support or participate in war with a section that stated "God Himself has a stake in the conflict."

Today a delegate browsing through the discipline discovered that an identical statement saying the church could not indorse, support or participate in war still remained in the discipline, under its social creed.

DEBATE AVOIDED

For a time it looked as if another day of debate such as took place Thursday might be repeated. But Dr. Albert E. Day, Pasadena, Cal., proposed a committee be appointed to change the phraseology of the discipline. His proposal was accepted—with cheers.

Seven bishops who will retire this spring were honored at tonight's meeting. They were: John C. Broomfield, St. Louis; Urban V. W. Darlington, Louisville; Hoyt M. Dobbs, Birmingham, Ala.; Robert E. Jones, Columbus, Ohio; Francis J. McConnell, New York; Ernest G. Richardson, Philadelphia, and John M. Springer, who was unable to leave his post in the Belgian Congo to attend this conference.

'South's Problem,' Says Bishop Gravatt

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 5.—(AP) The relationship of the white and Negro races is a "local southern problem that must be solved by evolution, not revolution; it is the south's problem," the Rt. Rev. John J. Gravatt, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Upper South Carolina told the 22d annual diocesan convention here today.

"Our friends in distant parts of our country and especially many in our own church are conscious of this and are being patient with us southerners while we are seeking a solution to a local problem that is national only in its influence," the Virginia native said. "But they cannot keep on waiting. An indifferent or defensive attitude is not enough."

Gifts Pour in for Baswells-Claude Unchanged

Dena Baswell sat at the window at Grady hospital yesterday afternoon listening to the husky, uneven breathing of her husband and watching drops of rain slide grayly down the window pane.

Claude, her husband, slept fitfully, and doctors couldn't honestly say his condition was any better since the amputation of both his legs, but somehow Dena felt more hopeful about the future than ever before.

Her hope—and a wavering kind of courage—were born of two things: The fact that Claude still lived and the bewildering wonderful kindness of people.

"They're giving us furniture?" she asked. "And clothes and money?" She caught her underlip with her teeth and tears trickled down her cheek. "Oh, that's so good!" she murmured. "People's so good!"

All day Atlantans, stirred by the story of Dena and Claude's plight since the fire that destroyed their home and all their belongings, called The Constitution with offers of furniture, clothing and money. By late afternoon H. H. Trotti, vice president and general manager, reported 22 cash gifts had been collected for the Baswells and there was a sizable pile of clothing, towels and bedding and a long list of furniture which The Constitution will undertake to pick up and deliver to the family.

Holloman, special agent in charge of the Atlanta office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced.

Taylor was indicted two years ago on charges of impersonating a lieutenant colonel in the Army and with fraudulently obtaining $581 from a local attorney and $525 from the president of an Atlanta business firm.

May 6, 1942—A Story To Remember

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning the presses started rolling on this—your copy—of The Atlanta Constitution of May 6, 1944.

At that hour, two years ago, Japanese guns increased their intensity of fire directed at Corregidor. A signal had flared. The Japanese, after seven days of continual shelling, were moving toward the island.

They swarmed ashore on the low-lying eastern shore.

Deep in the rock, where the wounded men were and where staff headquarters were, an American boy tapped out on his wireless:

"Too much for guys to take. . . . They have got us all around and from the sky. . . . Everyone is bawling like a baby. They are piling dead and wounded in our tunnel. . . . I know now how a mouse feels, caught in a trap. . . . My name Irving Strobing. . . . Tell my mother how you heard from me. . . ."

After that there was silence.

But on the rock there was humiliation and agony.

The Japanese had notified them earlier that if they did not surrender, they would not be treated as prisoners of war. This, of course, they ignored. They were not quitting. It was 1942, and men were supposed to be at least slightly veneered with civilization.

So they fought on from their tunnels—

Until about noon.

—V—

Then began a new chapter. It, too, must be remembered by Americans. It must be remembered now when the war weariness begins to affect a few of the less stable; when the shrewd, calculating little men tell us there is no reason for price ceilings and rationing; when there is an effort being made to make us all resent and resist war restrictions.

The story here we know only from a Japanese correspondent of Michi Nichi, a news service.

It was about noon that day when Lieutenant General John Mayhew Wainwright walked out carrying a white flag.

He walked in silence to the Japanese headquarters. There he said he had come to talk surrender. His aides were with him.

When the Japanese commander entered Wainwright and his men stood at attention, saluted.

It was Corregidor's end. The last defense of the Philippines was gone. In Tokyo, Kobe, and in other Japanese cities the school children paraded. The cities and villages were decorated. Fire works were exploded.

The hated Americans were defeated. Japanese generals and radio commentators began to tell them that victory was sure and only a short few weeks away.

Americans might remember how they felt in those days. Pearl Harbor's disaster was just becoming known in all its ghastly story. Victory perched on the banners of the enemy everywhere. He was pouring into the islands of the Pacific.

Ahead of us were more defeats and further humiliation.

But the story goes on.

—V—

The Japanese, with a century of pent-up feeling of inferiority to expend, went to work with a barbarity the world has not known since the savage massacres of our pioneer days; since the days when the Goths and Vandals and Huns went raging across Europe, torturing, killing, starving their victims.

Our soldiers were cruelly mistreated.

There is a belief among some of the men who have come back, that even General Wainwright was tortured. Not much has come back about him. Three, hand-printed, vague Red Cross cards have come.

He was—and we hope and pray, still is—a living, vital man.

When General Douglas MacArthur left, by order of the President, Skinny Wainwright was in command.

The men loved him as they had loved no other general.

It was Wainwright, clad not in regimentals and immaculate uniform, but in old faded pants and ragged shirt—fighting clothes—who lived with and visited with his men.

They never called themselves "MacArthur's Magnificents."

They called themselves "The Battling —— of Bataan" and they sang an ironic song which ran:

"We are the battling —— of Bataan,
No mama, no papa, no Uncle Sam."

Wainwright had his mules and horses killed. He and his men lived on spoiling horse and mule meat (there was no refrigeration), and mouldy rice. They ate two meals a day. Both in the night.

Wainwright was the man they loved, followed and obeyed. He kept them going. We know that from the stories and the books.

One of these days we will want an investigation of the whole Philippine campaign, as we had of Pearl Harbor, so that the whole story, with its failures and its grandeur, may be known.

Meanwhile we pray for Wainwright, his officers and his men.

—V—

It was not until a few months ago that the world knew the story of what happened after Corregidor. Lieutenant Colonel William E. Dyess escaped, with others, from a Japanese prison camp.

He wrote (and The Atlanta Constitution was one of the many newspapers to publish) the story of that horror-march after Corregidor when all the captured men from there and the islands, were marched long miles to prison, killed, beaten, beheaded, starved, cruelly tortured.

That story was effective in a way that may not now be told. But it was effective. It was well it was published.

—V—

Today, two years later (it seems much longer than two years), we are on the way back. A new, great Navy is in the Pacific. The planes are there. The food is there. The men are there.

We are on the way back. Back to Wainwright and his officers and men, who bloody, weary, hungry and ill, lived through the worst humiliation in our history—still live through the succeeding chapters.

They ask us to remember, too, the Filipinos, who fought with us, who died with us, and who even now, do all they can to help the Americans left.

So today, as we move toward the islands, Americans must remember May 6, 1942.

They must remember those bloody, tired, ragged men and against them and their sacrifice measure their own puny domestic sacrifices here in America.

What American can complain—remembering Wainwright and his men?

What American can afford to do other than to renew his support of the war, to endure our minor sacrifices, and do so cheerfully?

What American can forget May 6, 1942?

ROBERT QUILLEN

Weekly Letter

My dear Louise: I think the best proof of patriotism is not the impulse to crow when your nation does well, but the feeling of personal shame when one of your conspicuous fellow citizens does something low or vile in the sight of all the world.

Two well-known incidents will show you what I mean.

We like to think that Englishmen and Americans invented good sportsmanship, but all the world honors fair play and despises unfairness—or did before the Nazis and Japs went back to the jungle.

Bad sportsmanship has shamed us twice within my memory, and once at least it brought us a nation's scorn and dislike.

That was the time Dempsey fought big Firpo from the Argentine. Firpo had a wallop like a mule kick, and he knocked Dempsey clear out of the ring, so he landed on his shoulders among the typewriters of the newspaper men.

Some of them helped push him to his feet—probably only to get him off their machines, but it was not cricket. Nobody ever knew how long he was out of the ring, for the referee didn't count. If he was out 10 seconds, Firpo should have been declared the winner.

When Dempsey climbed back, he began to knock Firpo down with the regularity of a swinging pendulum. The referee should have made him go to a neutral corner after each knockdown, but he didn't. Firpo got up again and again, and each time Dempsey was standing there ready to sock him the moment he got to his feet.

Dempsey could have won fairly, but the referee permitted such gross unfairness that it enraged all Argentinos and shamed everybody in America who cared about such things.

The other incident occurred in a recent fight between a Mexican and an American colored boy. Again, you see, it was a foreigner.

The Mexican, who was the better boxer, forced the American against the ropes so that he fell back with his head between them and the top one caught under his chin. For a moment he was helpless.

The Mexican could have murdered him. Instead he stepped back and let him get up.

Then the Mexican held up both gloves in the ring gesture of good sportsmanship which means: "I didn't take advantage of you." The American should have raised both of his gloves and touched those of the Mexican to express his appreciation. That is the rule.

Instead, seeing his opponent offguard and helpless, he drove a left deep into the Mexican's abdomen. It was enough to cripple him and eventually cost him the fight.

It wasn't your shame. But all literate Mexicans read about it next day and they felt contempt for Americans, for they value gestures and manners and chivalry.

Don't say: "Who cares about Argentinos and Mexicans?" If they were savages it would matter more, for shame is doubly bitter if it exposes you before those you despise.

You are part of America, and what shames America shames you. When you feel that way, you will be a true patriot.

Love,
DAD.

Senator Soaper:

Young Tom Dewey would seem to belong to this strange new generation that can go on about its studies with a coast-to-coast program in its ear.

A doughboy in the Pacific has initiated the natives into the mysteries of the yo-yo, which possibly is even idler than whatever it was the islanders were doing.

Thanks to Joe Stalin and the RAF and AAF, this has been the winter of the Fuehrer's discontent, to be followed by a spring and summer of utter exasperation.

Some look for a period of critical unemployment after the war in which a fellow can go ahead with the game of pool without interruption by the phone.

GEORGIA EDITORS SAY:

HOME-RULE
(Clinch County News.)

In revising the Georgia state constitution, the committee, which has been appointed by Governor Arnall for the job, will render the people of Georgia a great service if it will insist on embodying the principal of home-rule for counties and municipalities.

Fair-minded, public-spirited officials and citizens, many organizations and newspapers have urged this adjustment to the constitution before, but it has always been in vain when it was presented to the legislature for approval as a constitutional amendment. The reason for the lack of legislative interest in it was always more or less obvious—the legislators hated to give up a source of power and patronage which, in keeping with our democratic processes of self-government, properly belonged not to the legislators but to their constitutients.

Why such a condition ever existed in the state constitution is only attributable to the fact that the state was once so thinly populated that our forefathers probably deemed it advisable for the well-being of the state as a whole. Now, it is different. Every county is, in general, roundly populated, and has a sense of responsibility caused from having its own schools, churches, public organizations and services, etc., in addition to modern-day problems with which only its people could possibly be familiar.

The outstanding citizens whom the Governor has appointed to the constitutional committee are, without exception, able and public-spirited. Their task is an important one to the future of the state. If they will include home-rule in the constitution, the people will vote for it overwhelmingly. It will give the people a newer and keener sense of responsibility in public affairs. Surely, there could be no objection.

That Gambling Game—The Derby

That well-known gambling game, the Kentucky Derby, will get going this afternoon at the historic Downs, out from Louisville.

It makes me sad, a little, not to be there.

I would like to be there for the Derby day only, arriving at noon and going out to the restaurant where the swipes and the handlers eat. There is where the best cole slaw may be had, and the best thick slices of roast beef and noodles.

Then I would like to watch the gambling line form. You can become very imaginative, watching the two-dollar line. In it is every shape and form and hope of humanity. Your old bag of a woman is there, shapeless and gray and down at the heel. Your little bride and groom are there, eager and excited at the prospect of winning $10 or $12 or maybe, even, hitting a long shot to pad the honeymoon money. There are your weary, hopeless ones, and there is middle-aged, nice-looking mama, able to spend $2 and waste it for once in her life. There are old men and there are touts and cheap girls and men.

This year there will be a lot of soldiers. Yes, sir. I'd as soon see the $2 lines before the mutuel windows as to see any race on the card—save the Derby.

They have money in their hands and they crowd up to the window, shouting just before it closes, "Wait, take mine."

Sporting money is the freshest, loosest money there is.

The $50 windows and the $100 windows are not too exciting. That's where the real money is played, there and at the $10 windows.

But the $2 windows are the soul of the Derby crowd, timid, hopeful, carnival, with just a touch of a tragedy somewhere that never quite comes to the surface.

JULEPS They will be peddling the juleps at the track again. Each with its three sprigs of mint, "one for flavor, one for aroma and one to tickle the nose." They are a very sorry julep, hastily made. One has to go to the Pendennis Club, or to one or two of the "old places" where the crowd can't get in, to get a real mint julep. The juleps they sell at the Downs, hawked through the crowd as we do cokes or peanuts at the ball game, are not good and they tear down a good drink's reputation. One dollar each, they are. Maybe with the shortage they won't have them.

The parasite-crowd always interests me. They are to be found at the real sporting places, the Miami tracks, the Derby, and at the cafe society places. They are the most artificial persons, like something dreamed up. They will be there this year, as of yore. The stars of this and that, the big gamblers, the fancy women, and the people with more money than they can manage without arrogance.

Man, it's a crowd, all of them put together, they and the $2 window set.

THE DERBY The Derby itself is beautiful. It is one of those brief interludes in which one is lifted out of life and, for a few fleeting seconds, lives on a great pinnacle high above mundane things.

At least that's the way it got me.

From the time they blow "Boots and Saddles"—that's when the thrill comes. The three-year-olds come out, sleek and beautiful and so alive they transmit some of it to you.

And when they come out of the starting stalls you can hear the drum of their hoofs above the swelling roaring, screech of the crowd.

You hear it fade and see them swirl into the first turn and on into the back stretch.

Before you are ready for it they are rounding the turn into the stretch and above the pleading, shrieking, shrilling thunder of the crowd you can hear their hoofs drumming again and see the first two or three horses, necks out, bodies moving like the sad but glorious part of "March Slav"—across the line.

You stand a moment, pulses thumping, and then you sit back. The lines come back into your face and the tired awareness of things into your mind. You reach for a piece of paper, put it into your typewriter and begin your lead. The biggest thrill at the biggest gambling game we have.

BILL CUNNINGHAM

War Is Cruel, Bloody, Ruthless And a Lot of It Is Yet To Come

"I left my husband in Texas shortly before Christmas," the young wife writes, "and that was just before he was ordered to a port of embarkation. In the Eighth Army Air Force, he has already been over Germany several times as a bombardier. In the short time he has been in action, I can tell from his letters how much he has changed, how much closer God has become to him. He's typical of the many American boys. . . . Some excerpts from a letter written two weeks ago. . . ."

These are the excerpts: "This week has been one of the most eventful ones in my life. I've lived a lifetime in a few short days. I've learned that life is very precious to one. I've learned that one can really face death, too.

"Needless to say, my nerves are pretty well shot. I haven't been able to sleep for several nights now. Yesterday we lost the crew that shared the barracks with us. That alone shakes a man who is already nervously worn out. We all believe, however, that the boys bailed out O. K. and are prisoners of war. It is tough on two of them, especially, because they have wives and babies. But that's the way war is. It's cruel and bloody and ruthless, with no quarter asked or given.

MISERY, HEARTACHES "When you stop to think of the misery and heartaches that just one man has brought to millions of people, you figure that no punishment is great enough for him. Adolf Hitler is truly a symbol of evil, and he and his crowd must be wiped off the face of the earth.

"I don't hate the German fliers, or soldiers. They're only doing what patriotism is in their book, I suppose. I can't help but think, though, of the healthy, able-bodied fellows back home griping about how hard they have to work in some factory 'backing the attack.'

"No job is as hard as sweating your life out with real bullets being fired at you. If I ever come back from this, no job will ever again look hard or tough. I'm not a hero. I'm not a glamorous airman. I'm just like all the rest of the fellows here—scared as hell—but keeping in there pitching in order to get it ended as soon as possible.

"I know that all your prayers have been answered for me, and I have a new faith in prayers myself. God has been good to us so far, and I hope He won't think me selfish when I say I hope He continues to be good. . . ."

RIGHT FROM HEART That's from just one of them, but it comes right out from where it is, and right out of the heart as well. People in this country had better pay more attention to that voice, too, and had better arrange to get themselves attuned to it.

Many here still have no conception of what it is saying, of what men who write words such as those are feeling, of what they're going to come back expecting—and with every moral right.

We're building up to the most complete and tragic letdown in history if we fail to remember what it is we're trying to fight. That's a crowd that's out to conquer the world—not to get home by Christmas, but to go and keep going. I heard 'em myself in the streets of Berlin sing "Heute gehoert uns Deutschland; Morgen die ganze Welt," which means, or so they told me, "Today Germany is ours; tomorrow the whole world will be." It was the Jugend, the Hitler Youth Movement, the young Nazis, I saw marching and heard singing that song. That was in '36. That's the German army of today. That's what they'd been broken loose from home, church and every softening influence to be trained and taught to believe.

They still believe it, and if you doubt it, talk with somebody who's had a chance to look at German prisoners of war. They aren't broken nor disillusioned. They consider themselves unlucky, that's all. They are still convinced that Hitler will be over here, and that we'll yet be on our knees.

"Street and highway production to play important part in post-war economy."—News item.

In the years that are to come we hope the boys will build a highway,
That will last us, unmolested, from Monday to a Friday.
For the workers now just patch them up and they are never done
Though they toil from early morning 'til the setting of the sun.
With mortar and with cobblestones and steaming asphalt batches
They putter all the livelong day to lay their little patches,
Which seem to have for other working men some strange allure,
For they hustle out to dig them up and lay another sewer.
You may talk about destruction that's resulting from the wars—
Just look at all our highways that are marked with many scars
And it seems a shame the boys must dig their fox-holes over there
When we could ship them all they need and still have some to spare.
If we're looking for production to take up the labor slack,
When the present boom is ended and the boys come marching back,
There is nothing that will help us lift our economic loads
Better than the careful building of some better kinds of roads.
And we have often wondered as we strolled about the town
Are they trying to keep production up or put a pavement down.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Election

NEW YORK, May 5.—Some of us seem to think that our British and Russian friends, as a matter of politeness, tact and good sense, ought to put out of their minds entirely the subject of the presidential campaign and election in the U. S. A. this year or, if that is impossible, to say nothing about it. This is asking too much, because this decision of the American people is very important to them as well as to us and nothing they may say in debate or in print can have the slightest effect on the result. Naturally, they favor President Roosevelt, because he has been extremely co-operative since the fall of France and before, and they know him well and are pretty sure what he will do. Tom Dewey they know only by reputation, and he might have some new ideas which would trim some of Mr. Roosevelt's open-handed generosity to the rest of the world and might want to get positive commitments from our allies as to what we are to get back for what we give. He is definite where Mr. Roosevelt is vague and would want to put something down in writing in place of the emotional, political generalities exchanged hitherto by men whose word is not necessarily binding on their peoples after they die or lose office, such as Mr. Churchill's gaudy promises of everlasting co-operation given at an hour when things were going very badly for Britain and he had to do a job of salesmanship.

Loyal to Moscow

This interest is not an intrusion in our domestic politics, except in the case of the Communists among us who apparently are far out of touch with their home office which has crossed them up repeatedly. Naturally, they will raise a fuss for the President because he is so good to them on the home front, permitting them to dirty up our labor relations, and they can be sure that if and when Dewey should take over, he would give the entire government a thorough delousing of the fellow-travelers in all departments, including the D. of J. In a way, this is foreign intrusion in our internal politics, for the Communists and fellow-travelers are loyal to Moscow, not to the United States, and don't like our form of government.

Nor do I accept as a fact the pretense that the international Communist organization has been dissolved or that Stalin has abandoned the old custom, admitted in our treaty of recognition, of maintaining agents among us to promote his interests. It is just that this is a normal condition among us, encouraged by the New Deal for all these years, and not a special impudence in this election year.

The Communists are gluttons for humiliation. Stalin boots them around, slams doors on them and leaves them out on a limb every few weeks, but they love the guy

So far we have always handled this Communist interference like an easy infield out, and their noisy support of Mr. Roosevelt's more outrageous moves, such as the Montgomery-Ward case, probably makes more votes for Dewey than for their man.

Churchill Knows

Churchill is one who really knows what foreign interference is. He was a victim of it himself back in the 30s when his anti-Nazi pot-boilers pecked out in the role of journalist had earned him a high priority on Hitler's black list, and he couldn't get anything to do in the government lest this be taken by the Fuehrer as a deliberately unfriendly act. He is in no position to try anything like that on us in this campaign, but there is no reason why an Englishman shouldn't say he hopes President Roosevelt will be re-elected, as most of them do, and Churchill knows us too well to offer us any advice himself.

That we should be sensitive about such expressions will seem inconsistent to other peoples who see us now in Italy fumbling around trying to invent some new form of government for the lower part of the boot and hear our pundits muttering about the re-education of the Germans toward democracy and freedom which they hate. We are even going to try the miracle of unifying France, whether with a club or through bribery we haven't yet made up our minds, and not merely intrude in their domestic politics but, if possible, run their elections.

Just so they say what they have to say in their own countries, our gallant allies should have our permission to sound off at will. And Republicans should be the last to complain, because such expressions are sure to favor Mr. Roosevelt and the more emphatic they are the more sales-resistance they arouse to the detriment of their own purpose.

NATIONAL COMMENT:

THOUGHT ON THE DAY'S MAIL
(St. Louis Star-Times)

We have been hopefully watching our mail ever since the increased postage rates went into effect, but we are about ready to give up. It is cluttered with just as many form-letters and brochures, just as much mimeographed and printed propaganda as ever.

Everybody who has an axe to grind these days seems to be doing it through the mails. The post is made to carry the pleas of everybody from the premier of a government-in-exile to the lobbyist who is trying to put a fast one through the legislature in the guise of high patriotism.

We have learned how to judge the contents of such mail without ever opening it, and our waste-paper basket is a capacious one. As we watch it fill up every morning, we marvel at the naive faith of the people who sent out all this stuff. They must really believe that it is read! We are also forced to smile rather wryly over the paper shortage. And we are sure that, if it would save us from this daily deluge, we would gladly pay a nickel or even a dime to send or receive a genuine letter.

Track May Be Wet But Spectators Dry . . .

This is Derby Day up in Louisville, in Ole Kaintuck, where the corn is full of kernels and the colonels full, to their regret, of memories only.

The biggest crowd in history will see today's race. There's been more people present in the past, of course. But never, thanks to the whisky shortage, so many sober ones.

The fact that the Derby continues to draw such crowds, incidentally, comes as a real surprise to the cynics. The Derby, they said, might get along without horses . . . but never without mint juleps.

Seventy thousand citizens are expected to be in attendance at this afternoon's event. The race, because of travel restrictions, has been billed as a "street-car affair." Some of those characters must have had plenty of transfers.

Seriously, the ODT tried to keep it cozy. There were no special trains, no extra Pullmans, and no reservations for those who were going to Louisville merely to see a horse race. It was really plumb amazing, however, how many people developed urgent business in the vicinity of Churchill Downs during the past week.

Sixteen probable starters are listed for today's seventieth running of the annual classic. The experts say it'll be a great race. Personally, I expect that the horses were trying harder last year when meat rationing was getting worse and there was really something at stake.

A chestnut gelding named Stir Up, out of Stimulus-Lady Minnie, is the odds-on favorite. But my fancy's a black colt named Broadcloth . . .

Probably out of Cotton-Preshrunk.

RALPH T. JONES

They Must Believe We're Awfully Dumb

One of our boys came home on furlough, recently, from the Pacific. He has been in some of the bitterest campaigns in that area.

He brought home with him, among other souvenirs, some of the propaganda leaflets which Japanese pilots have dropped from their planes over our troops. Presumably the idea is to tempt our fighting men to surrender or, anyway, to quit fighting.

There is only one conclusion to be drawn, if these are typical samples of the Japanese ideas in propaganda. That is, they must think we are the dumbest morons on earth. Anyone who hopes, for one moment, that there are men in our fighting services who would be influenced by such childish stuff must be mad, that's all.

"BLANKETY-BLANK PRESDENT" Yes, Mr. Compositor, that is how it is spelled on this piece of Japanese propaganda. No "i" in president. And I don't think it is a subtle hint that Roosevelt is blind. For misspelled words are not uncommon.

This is a strip of five pictures. All depict an American soldier alone on an island just large enough for him to stand. The first is titled "Elation" and shows a ship flying the Stars and Stripes appearing over the horizon. The soldier on the island dances with joy. The next picture shows the ship sinking, presumably torpedoed. This is titled "Deflation," with fitting reaction for the lone soldier.

Next comes a scene of four ships, in line, showing over the horizon. The soldier peers, smiling, at the approaching vessels. This is "Anticipation." Then comes "Perdition" as the ships are close enough to show their Japanese flags. And the fifth, and final, picture shows three gun barrels with Japanese flags on them pointing at the soldier who shakes his fists, enraged, in the opposition direction. This is "Exasperation," and, below the whole thing, is a line reading "That blankety-blank president and his two-cent promises."

The funny part of it is the crude thing might have a little meaning in reverse. Those 60,000 trapped Nips might grasp the meaning as we wipe them out and as no rescue comes from Japan.

OTHER TYPES But there are other leaflets.

F'rinstance, there is the one depicting a pensive looking girl with the picture of a soldier wading up to his shoulders in mud, the aforesaid picture being in one of those balloons which cartoonists use and which, in this case, is supposed to reveal what the girl is thinking. There is, superimposed, a handsome young civilian and a luscious sort of blonde kissing.

And the pensive gal is supposed to say, "You above all men, do you have to bear the brunt of this war alone and for so long? You never seem to think of me. I'm lonesome without you. Tom has come home months ago. And Thomas still admires me, as you know. Sometimes, I really do lose confidence in myself—"

Then there is one of a gal, again a blonde, wearing almost nothing, perched on the lap of a tuxedoed fellow who is holding a cocktail glass in the hand that is now pressing the girl's waist. Both are grinning out of the picture, which is captioned, "Behind your back! That slick fellow. That slacker. Of course, the villain is rich and handsome, well-groomed and full of influence. He might be having your girl right now. He winks and says, 'Yes, we thank you for all this and heaven knows for more.'"

One more, headed "Siren." Showing a soldier with the nude figure of a snow-white female clinging to him and the head on the female figure is a skull. The lines: "Beware, young man! The lady will get you if you don't watch out. You'll never see those green hills at home again once her clutches tighten on you—and she's got a fairly good grip right now—there is only one way out—"

THERE'S NO DANGER There's no danger of any reaction to such crudities, by our men, other than amusement. Now, if we operated on the same theory that the Axis does, that is, distort the news and tell our own men a lot of lies, such propaganda might be effective.

But our men, even on the furthest battle fronts, know exactly, every day, what is happening to their comrades—and to the enemy—all around the world. And, knowing the truth, propaganda has no effect upon them.

Incidentally, Japanese radio broadcasts, intended for the ears of our troops, not infrequently tell how the Japs hold certain islands which we took from them long ago. Our men, garrisoned on those same islands, hear such broadcasts. Our leaders don't even object to listening to Japanese broadcasts. Or similar German broadcasts.

They are a good source of comedy!

60,000 Expected at 70th Kentucky Derby Today

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Good Track in Prospect CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—There will be a minimum of mud-slinging in this election year Kentucky Derby, which has attracted more candidates than the hopeful Republican party.

Stir Up, from the Greentree Stables of Mrs. Payne Whitney, hopes to be elected Mr. Derby of 1944 in the gallop of the dozen and seven assorted thoroughbreds over a Churchill Downs track made slow by Thursday's rain. Clearing skies and favorable weather reports indicate that the racing strip may be slightly wet but not sloppy. The sun was shining bright in your old Kentucky home today. The oval was drying and only a scattering of the experts remained wet.

The prospect is for a good track only and recalls that it's in the same condition that existed for the 1935 Derby triumph of Omaha. There were 18 horses entered in that race. Omaha made the mile and a quarter in 2:05. That time would be acceptable tomorrow.

It has been half a dozen years since as many as 19 owners have figured they had a chance to share in the Derby winnings. They have run the gross value of the 70th Derby to $87,700, providing all 19 horses go to the post. The net value for the winner is $65,675. Hay, hay and nod to kudzu.

Even the most enthusiastic Derby followers agree that there's everything in the race except an outstanding horse. For the most part they're picking Jockey Eddie Arcaro for first place and Trainer Ben Jones (who has prepared Pensive for Warren Wright) second. Skytracer is figured to run in the money. The writers would like to see Whitey Abel's Gramps Image among the first four, largely for sentimental reasons. Whitey is a likable trainer. But personality doesn't win unless the horse has it, plus the ability to outrun the field at a killing mile and a quarter under 126 pounds.

Jockey Arcaro, the wiry Italian, is, of course, shooting for his third Derby victory to equal the records of Earl Sande and Isaac Murphy. Arcaro was on Whirlaway on May 3, 1941, when a new track record of 2:01 2-5 was established. He previously had won on Lawrin.

Finally a Filly The race even has a Peace Bells and, finally, a filly. But it isn't one of the fillies given so much attention during the winter. Charles Compton decided to risk $500 on Peace Bells almost at the last minute. Comanche Peak, a gelding and snappy winner of the Dix River purse yesterday, also was a surprise entry. But not nearly so much so as Peace Bells.

It might be added that into a stormy scene has come Peace Bells. It hardly is any place for a lady. There's often a lot of wild scrambling in such a large field. The skill of an Arcaro may be needed to justify Stir Up's favorite's rating. It'll be a case of every little man for himself.

O. E. Breault's Challenge Me, Louisiana Derby victor, drew the No. 1 post position and M. B. Goff's Skytracer dropped into the No. 2 slot. Third, fourth, fifth and sixth are Peace Bells, Dave Ferguson's Bell Buzzer, Warren Wright's Pensive and Mrs. Whitney's Stir Up. The well-regarded Broadcloth drew No. 11 and Gramps Image No. 16. Comenow, which has been on the border line, was finally entered and drew post position No. 19.

I was a bit curious about post positions in some of the other Derbies that had featured such a large entry list. Omaha started in 10th post position in 1935. War Admiral, in a field of 19 other horses, started in post position No. 1. Shut Out started in No. 3 position in a field of 15.

Bold Venture drew No. 5 post position in winning against 14 other horses in 1936. But the 14th horse was never officially listed as a finisher. It was the year Granville lost his rider, Stout.

Incidentally, Clyde Van Dusen, in 1929, was the last gelding to win a Derby, and Van Dusen, running in a cloudburst, had drawn 20th post position in a field of 21 horses.

The gelding Stir Up has a comfortable No. 6 position and nothing to worry about except a good start and a strong finish.

The Selections It's difficult to keep from changing selections from day to day. Some pickers finally arrive at a winner by a process of elimination. Opinions change faster than fashions in women's hats.

However, there must be one official selection. And on it a writer must stick to the bitter end.

Orlo Robertson came around for the selections today. "Be brave," he instructed.

Personally, I'll take a stab at Stir Up, Pensive, Skytracer and Gramps Image.

Arcaro figured Stir Up would be a "shoo in" on a muddy track and the best of the lot on a fast track. That should make the Greentree gelding a winner on a good track. Ben Jones doesn't take a long train ride unless he figures his horse has a chance. Pensive, in a poll, probably is a solid second choice. A lot of play has gone Skytracer's way.

None of the horses has ever gone a mile and a quarter before, so the usual guesswork is involved in making selections. The four choices named above have trained well and have come up to Derby day as the favored few. But this doesn't always mean that they finish in the chips. The surprise element is one of the big factors that sustains interest in horse racing.

Yankees Blast Red Sox; Solons Outslug A's, 11-8

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—The New York Yankees inaugurated a long home stand by winning their fifth straight, 11 to 7, over the Red Sox today, before a ladies' day crowd of 7,093.

The Yankees climbed all over Tex Hughson and Charlie Woods for 15 hits, their heaviest offensive outburst of the season.

Nick Etten stretched his batting streak through 11 straight games, with a single, double and his third homer of the year. He also drew two walks for a perfect day at bat.

George Stirnweiss extended his hitting streak through nine games in a row by making two singles.

Crackers Lose Loyd Gearhart

Loyd Gearhart, promising young outfielder, underwent an operation to remove a torn cartilege from his knee yesterday afternoon and will be lost to the Atlanta Crackers for at least two months.

Gearhart had been used only once since the season opened, and then as a pinch hitter, but Manager Kiki Cuyler had planned to work the rookie into his lineup soon. His bad knee hampered him throughout spring training.

Last night's game between the Crackers and Chattanooga's Lookouts was postponed because of rain.

The two clubs end their present series in a single game today. Manager Cuyler said he would pitch either Charley Cozart or Dick Mauney, but Manager Scrappy Moore, of Chattanooga, was undecided. He had planned to use "Lefty" Denton last night and may pitch him today.

Big Welcome Is Planned For Britt's Homecoming

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 4.(AP)—Fayetteville and Washington county today began preparing a mammoth welcome for Captain Maurice Britt, former University of Arkansas and Detroit Lion football star, when he comes here to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor for bravery on the Italian front.

Britt lost an arm in the Italian fighting and is now recuperating in Lawson General hospital in Atlanta, Ga.

Phillies Notch Fifth Straight; Gain 2d Place

BROOKLYN, May 5.—(AP)—The surprising Philadelphia Phillies got good pitching again today, this time from Southpaw Ken Raffensberger, and climbed into second place in the National League flag race on the strength of their 3-to-1 victory over Brooklyn.

It was the fifth straight triumph for the Phillies and the third in a row for Raffensberger, a 19-game winner with Los Angeles, of the Coast League, last season.

Raffensberger was tighter than a pair of new shoes, giving the Dodgers only four blows—two of them to Frenchy Bordagaray—and his southpaw shoots were so effective that only one fly ball was lifted to the outfield. He walked two batters.

The game was virtually decided in the fifth frame when Ron Northey hammered one of Curt Davis' offerings for a home run with Elvin Adams on base.

The Phils now are only a half game behind the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals, whose game today was postponed because of cold weather.

THREAT TO STIR UP TODAY—This comely thoroughbred is Skytracer which, according to the odds-makers, is the most dangerous threat to the favored Stir Up in the 70th running of the most famed of horse races, the Kentucky Derby. Mike Caffarella will be aboard Owner M. B. Goff's 4-to-1 shot when the crack three-year-old pack faces the barrier at Churchill Downs today. Skytracer, winner of the recent Blue Grass Stakes, is a son of Flares Out of Borgia II.

Charlie Grimm Named New Manager of Cubs

CHICAGO, May 5.—(AP)—Charlie Grimm, after a telephone conversation with Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, today said that he had agreed to become Cub manager and "all that remains to be done is to sign the contract."

Grimm returns to the Cubs, the club from which he was dismissed July 20, 1938, after leading it to two National League pennants during a six-year managerial term.

The 44-year-old Grimm has been field boss and part owner of the Milwaukee Brewers the last three seasons, steering the club last year to its first American Association championship since 1936.

Casey Stengel, who resigned as field boss of the Boston Braves last winter, was en route to Chicago and it was understood that he will become manager of the Brewers.

Grimm, arriving in Chicago today on the way home with his Milwaukee team from Kansas City, immediately reported for a conference with Wrigley, who ousted him as Cub manager in 1938, and with James Gallagher, Cubs vice president and general manager.

"The main thing I am interested in is protecting the interests of Bill Veeck Jr., as well as my own in the Milwaukee organization," Grimm said. "Stengel should be an ideal man for the Brewers job. Milwaukee wants another winning team in the American Association and I want to see that they get it."

Rogers succeeds Jerry Eisenberg, of Savannah, who was named to the executive committee. Others on the committee are E. M. Boyce, of Columbus, and W. H. Tucker Jr., of North Fulton High.

Nolan's discus range was 106 feet, 7½ inches, and javelin 154 feet, 10 3-8 inches.

Richmond 'ademy, with eight points, was behind Lanier. Other schools in the scoring during the morning finals included North Fulton, four points; Boys' High, two points, and Tech High, one point.

Stir Up Heads 19 Nominees; Track Muddy

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—(AP) Nineteen 3-year-old horses, one of them a filly that never has started, today accepted the issue for the 70th Kentucky Derby—America's mile and one-quarter turf classic that is expected to draw upwards of 60,000 fans to Churchill Downs tomorrow and be run over a muddy track for the first time in 15 years.

Not all likely will parade to the post at 5:15 p. m., Central War Time, but if as many as 16 of them face Starter Reuben White it'll be the richest Derby since Aristides galloped home in front in 1875 with Colonel Matt Winn, impresario of the blue ribbon event, viewing the first of his 69 Derbies from a grocery wagon on the back stretch.

Based on 19 starters the race will have a gross value of $88,200 with the winner taking down $66,700. For each scratch the gross value and purse to the winner will be reduced by $500—the starting fee that must be posted at least 45 minutes before post time. When Shut Out won in 1942, he picked up $64,225 from the total of $86,250 to set the financial record.

SURPRISE ENTRIES

There were only two surprises as the names were dropped into the entry box this morning. Comanche Peak, who won a six and one-half furlong race in the slop yesterday, was named by Mrs. Floyd West, of Dallas, Texas. Then 45 minutes after the usual time for closing of the entries, Charlie Compton, Louisville owner and trainer, dropped in the name of Peace Bells—a filly that never has started or even been considered a remote possibility.

Rain, which soaked the racing strip for nearly 36 hours, finally stopped around noon. The sun broke through the clouds spasmodically, but there was little encouragement from the weather man that there would be sufficient warmth and wind to dry out the track by tomorrow.

Heading the field of 13 colts, five geldings and Peace Bells was Stir Up from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable. There was some doubt whether the son of Stimulus can carry his speed the Derby distance, but he remained the staunch favorite at lengthening odds of 5 to 2. His odds may take a decided drop if the track is muddy for the Greentree gelding improves many pounds under bad footing.

GOOD POST POSITION

Stir Up, who'll be ridden by the country's No. 1 jockey, Eddie Arcaro, drew a favorable post position in No. 6—a spot that gives him a clear shot at the first turn, three-eighths of a mile away. The fleet Challenge Me, carrying the hopes of O. E. Breault's Chicago-owned Brolite Stable and quoted at 6-1, drew No. 1.

Picked to give Stir Up his closest argument was Skytracer, the lanky colt from M. B. Goff's Pittsburgh barns. He, too, likes mud, and being a son of Flares, 1938 Ascot Gold Cup winner, is bred to run all day.

Florida Counties Get More Racing Funds

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 5.—(AP)—Comptroller J. M. Lee today announced distributing of another $7,000 in racing tax funds to each of Florida's counties.

That brings the total received by each county this season to $48,000, which is $15,000 more than the law guarantees them. There will be a little more money to distribute after the dog racing season closes this week.

Jackets Face N. C. Trackmen

By BERT PRATHER.

Georgia Tech's powerful track and field team, easy winners over Tulane in a pair of meets and over Sewanee, will face its first real test of the season when it entertains Coach Bob Fetzer's University of North Carolina tracksters in a dual meet this afternoon at Grant field, starting at 2:30 p. m.

Coach Norris Dean said that the meet should be the best of the season here. The Jacket coach, using comparative times, figures the meet should result in a Carolina victory by about six points.

The Tarheels are strong in the middle distance events. McKenzie, a crack 880 and miler, will be plenty hard to take in his specialties. In the half, he will face Tech's Albert Hill. Hill has done 2:01.8 this season and should get under two flat if pushed. McKenzie, with a two flat record this year, seems to be just the man to do it.

The Tarheel star will tangle with John Serrie, the Jackets' undefeated distance star, in the mile. McKenzie was clocked at 4:26 last week against North Carolina Preflight, but it is probable that he will have to better this time today if he succeeds in topping the smooth-striding Serrie, a former national junior champion.

Tech figures to have an advantage in most of the field events, except the high jump, where the visitors have two men capable of about six feet two. The Carolinans brought a squad of 25 men down for the meet, which insures plenty of starters in all events. The tennis teams will be here too, meeting the Jacket netmen at the Tech courts.

Black Crackers Plan Gala Opening

Interest is increasing as the time approaches for the opening Black Cracker baseball game with the Jacksonville Red Caps, to be played at Ponce de Leon park tomorrow beginning at 2:30 p. m. The affair will be a double-header.

The Atlanta team will face an acid test as there is always heated rivalry between the two teams. The Black Crackers boast one of the hardest hitting teams since their organization.

There will be a special section reserved for white fans.

A crowd of 12,000 fans is the goal set by officials who have planned several added attractions including a pre-game band concert.

In the Air

BY PAUL JONES

The 70th running of the Kentucky Derby, America's turf classic, will be described by Columbia's ace sports commentator, Ted Husing, from 5 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. today over WGST. A Derby preview will go on the air via the same station at 3:15 p. m.

The Metropolitan Opera Company's presentation today will be Bizet's "Carmen." Lily Djanel, Licia Albanese, Raoul Jobin and Francesco Valentino are the principals. Wildred Pelletier conducts the orchestra. This is the final radio presentation of the season.

Louis Bromfield, noted American novelist and playwright whose column appears in the Sunday Constitution, will talk during Columbia's Victory F. O. B. program at 2 p. m. over WGST today. Bromfield's latest work is "What Became of Anna Bolton."

Lauritz Melchoir, Wagnerian tenor of the Met, and recently discovered to be a radio comedian of no mean ability, will be featured during the Blue's presentation of "The Music America Loves Best" at 6:30 p. m. today over WAGA. Charlie Spivak's orchestra will fill in on the "jive" portion of the program.

For the second consecutive year the Blue Network, beginning tonight (WAGA at 7:30 p. m.), will present the world-famous Boston Pops orchestra in a series of serious music programs. Two well-known works by Berloiz, the Rakoczy March" and the "Roman Carnival Overture" highlight tonight's program.

When a traveling show finds itself with more people than pants, the only thing to do is to wrap up in bedsheets and go Arabian. So reasons Graucho Marx during his Blue Ribbon Town 'cast tonight (WGST at 7 p. m.) . . . "The Last Day of the War," an intriguingly titled story of the Army Medical Corps' work in preparing the transition from army to civilian life, will be dramatized on "Army Service Forces Present" over WAGA at 9:30 p. m. . . . Running Bing Crosby a close second, the Duke of Paducah lets his hair down on the horses he's bet on without winning once during the "Grand Ole Opry" show (WSB at 9:30 p. m.).

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—Led by rains and specialties, the stock market donned its climbing clothes today and pushed up fractions to 3 or more points, a number of favorites reaching peaks for 1944.

The revival got under way around midday, after a somewhat sketchy opening, and activity expanded briskly for a while. Closing prices were at or near their best in most cases although activity tapered in the final hour.

Bond market prices tended to harden in late dealings today after a slow and trendless forenoon session.

Up Bond Sales, Bankers Urged

Suggesting a War Bond sales quota to members of the Georgia Bankers' Association, David J. Arnold, president of the organization, has urged state bank executives to redouble their efforts in selling bonds to their depositors.

Arnold recommended to the bankers a quota of one-half the difference between the savings account balance of their institutions today and that of three years ago.

The importance of the bank depositor investment plan also was emphasized by Charles A. Stair, state chairman of war finance, who believes that the south as a whole will need even more capital after the war. He stated that every dollar put into War Bonds now will strengthen the financial foundation of the region.

U. S. Diplomat to Finns Is Going to Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, May 5.—(AP)—Edmund A. Gullion, U. S. charge d'affaires in Helsinki, is coming to Stockholm Monday "to renew contacts and have talks," an official of the American legation in Stockholm disclosed today.

He emphasizes that Gullion's visit in no way indicated a break in United States-Finnish relations, about which thre has been considerable speculation lately as a result of the Finnish government rejection of Russian armistice terms.

In London there was speculation that Gullion's visit may indicate that new moves were under way to end the Russian-Finnish war.

Building Slash Succeeds, Lumber Relief Is Seen

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Some relief in the lumber shortage was seen today in a War Production Board announcement reporting greater success "than had been anticipated" in cutting back 1944 construction activity.

WPB said total volume of military and civilian building this year was not expected to exceed $3,500,000,000, about 10 per cent under the $3,900,000,000 estimate made last fall.

Your Horoscope

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS,

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—The better part of the day is before 12:57 p. m. when you should give your undivided attention to matters that will bring you personal benefits. The predominating influences for the remainder of the day are disturbing to the peace of mind and you should avoid exertion strain, overwork or excitement.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Today will be a day of many interruptions, upheavals, and things you probably thought had been forgotten may suddenly come to light. Therefore, make no voluntary changes or alterations and proceed with caution.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Before 4:04 p. m. favors attention to steady routine and affairs that have an element of duty attached to them. After 4:04 p. m. guard against disagreements, or quick flare ups.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—This will be a day when you cannot drive people. Use moderation, tact and diplomacy and curb any tendency towards criticism, impulsiveness and quibbling. Added care should be given to contracts made, promises and agreements made, and in traveling.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—You may not feel like remaining in one place long today and business and financial affairs will be subject to delays. This will be especially true in real estate transactions, domestic and private affairs, mechanical matters and liquids.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—This will be an excellent day to look after affairs that concern others, or if you have any money transactions for others. However, do not expect that you will complete deals in haste. Before 3:05 p. m. is the better part of the day.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—It will be better to retrench and conserve your efforts today. Your decisions may be somewhat clouded, or marked with indecisions.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO) If you can remain passive, or keep behind the scenes until 11:38 a. m. do so, for previous to this time you are likely to be uncertain what to do or say and affairs in your life are apt to meet controversies. After 11:38 a. m. you obtain a better perspective on life and can direct your energies along useful lines.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—This should be a peaceful and agreeable day when you can put forth much activity to obtain comfort and for dealings in artistic lines. A favorable day for dealings with anyone working with you on a partnership basis.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Keep your pose today. Indications are you will be balked at every turn. Some hard lesson learned today can be most helpful in the future, however. A very unfavorable day for liquids, real estate, all conservative ideas and for dealings with important people.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS) An inauspicious day for matters of a substantial nature, for new undertakings and for affairs related to mining and real estate. However, matters that require harmony, good will, and of a refined nature, may be transacted advantageously.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Between 12:26 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. you are likely to be too hasty and impulsive and should guard against a sarcastic mental attitude towards those around you. Between 2:30 p. m. and 9:51 p. m. there is much personal touchiness around you, causing you to feel irksome. The remainder of the evening in filled with favorable influences.

WFA Head Indorses U. S. School Lunch Aid

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones indorsed the principal of federal school lunch aid today and asked a senate agriculture subcommittee to guard against placing the Agriculture Department in a position where it could dictate school policies.

Jones suggested that congress provide even more than the $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 lunch aid contemplated in the several bills under consideration of the subcommittee headed by Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana.

Food Shortage Till '47 Feared by Great Britain

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Great Britain, in contrast to recent developments here, is preparing for a possible tightening of food rationing and a continuation of controls for possibly two years after the war in Europe ends.

James A. Scott Watson, retiring British agricultural attache in this country, told a press conference this today, adding that his country saw little hope of normal food supplies before 1947.

Novogorod in Ruins After Nazi Pillaging

MOSCOW, May 5.—(AP)—A state committee investigating German atrocities reported today that the Nazis had virtually destroyed Novogorod, one of the birthplaces of Russian culture.

A four-column report in morning newspapers said only 40 of the city's 2,346 houses remained. The 11th century Sofia cathedral, oldest monument in Russian architecture, was reported destroyed and the ruins systematically pillaged.

Up Bond Sales, Bankers Urged

Suggesting a War Bond sales quota to members of the Georgia Bankers' Association, David J. Arnold, president of the organization, has urged state bank executives to redouble their efforts in selling bonds to their depositors.

Arnold recommended to the bankers a quota of one-half the difference between the savings account balance of their institutions today and that of three years ago.

The importance of the bank depositor investment plan also was emphasized by Charles A. Stair, state chairman of war finance, who believes that the south as a whole will need even more capital after the war. He stated that every dollar put into War Bonds now will strengthen the financial foundation of the region.

U. S. Diplomat to Finns Is Going to Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, May 5.—(AP)—Edmund A. Gullion, U. S. charge d'affaires in Helsinki, is coming to Stockholm Monday "to renew contacts and have talks," an official of the American legation in Stockholm disclosed today.

He emphasizes that Gullion's visit in no way indicated a break in United States-Finnish relations, about which thre has been considerable speculation lately as a result of the Finnish government rejection of Russian armistice terms.

In London there was speculation that Gullion's visit may indicate that new moves were under way to end the Russian-Finnish war.

BuildingSlash Succeeds, Lumber Relief Is Seen

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Some relief in the lumber shortage was seen today in a War Production Board announcement reporting greater success "than had been anticipated" in cutting back 1944 construction activity.

WPB said total volume of military and civilian building this year was not expected to exceed $3,500,000,000, about 10 per cent under the $3,900,000,000 estimate made last fall.

Your Horoscope

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS,

March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—The better part of the day is before 12:57 p. m. when you should give your undivided attention to matters that will bring you personal benefits. The predominating influences for the remainder of the day are disturbing to the peace of mind and you should avoid exertion strain, overwork or excitement.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Today will be a day of many interruptions, upheavals, and things you probably thought had been forgotten may suddenly come to light. Therefore, make no voluntary changes or alterations and proceed with caution.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Before 4:04 p. m. favors attention to steady routine and affairs that have an element of duty attached to them. After 4:04 p. m. guard against disagreements, or quick flare ups.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—This will be a day when you cannot drive people. Use moderation, tact and diplomacy and curb any tendency towards erraticism, impulsiveness and quibbling. Added care should be given to contracts made, promises and agreements made, and in traveling.

July 23-August 22 (LEO)—You may not feel like remaining in one place long today and business and financial affairs will be subject to delays. This will be especially true in real estate transactions, domestic and private affairs, mechanical matters and liquids.

August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—This will be an excellent day to look after affairs that concern others, or if you have any money transactions for others. However, do not expect that you will complete deals in haste. Before 3:05 p. m. is the better part of the day.

September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—It will be better to retrench and conserve your efforts today. Your decisions may be somewhat clouded, or marked with indecisions.

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—If you can remain passive, or keep behind the scenes until 11:38 a. m. do so, for previous to this time you are likely to be uncertain what to do or say and affairs in your life are apt to meet controversies. After 11:38 a. m. you obtain a better perspective on life and can direct your energies along useful lines.

November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—This should be a peaceful and agreeable day when you can put forth much activity to obtain comfort and for dealings in artistic lines. A favorable day for dealings with anyone working with you on a partnership basis.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—Keep your pose today. Indications are you will be balked at every turn. Some hard lesson learned today can be most helpful in the future, however. A very unfavorable day for liquids, real estate, all conservative ideas and for dealings with important people.

January 20-February 18 (AQUARIUS)—An inauspicious day for matters of a substantial nature, for new undertakings and for affairs related to mining and real estate. However, matters that require harmony, good will, and of a refined nature, may be transacted advantageously.

February 19-March 20 (PISCES)—Between 12:26 p. m. and 2:30 p. m. you are likely to be too hasty and impulsive and should guard against a sarcastic mental attitude towards those around you. Between 2:30 p. m. and 9:51 p. m. there is much personal touchiness around you, causing you to feel irksome. The remainder of the evening in filled with favorable influences.

WFA Head Indorses U. S. School Lunch Aid

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones indorsed the principal of federal school lunch aid today and asked a senate agriculture subcommittee to guard against placing the Agriculture Department in a position where it could dictate school policies.

Jones suggested that congress provide even more than the $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 lunch aid contemplated in the several bills under consideration of the subcommittee headed by Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana.

Food Shortage Till '47 Feared by Great Britain

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Great Britain, in contrast to recent developments here, is preparing for a possible tightening of food rationing and a continuation of controls for possibly two years after the war in Europe ends.

James A. Scott Watson, retiring British agricultural attache in this country, told a press conference this today, adding that his country saw little hope of normal food supplies before 1947.

Novogorod in Ruins After Nazi Pillaging

MOSCOW, May 5.—(AP)—A state committee investigating German atrocities reported today that the Nazis had virtually destroyed Novogorod, one of the birthplaces of Russian culture.

A four-column report in morning newspapers said only 40 of the city's 2,346 houses remained. The 11th century Sofia cathedral, oldest monument in Russian architecture, was reported destroyed and the ruins systematically pillaged.
